2017-18 TL Plan Update

Brent Hogan reviewed the Trustlands plan. Megan Lawson is the new Americorps person for the reading program. Moby Max and data will be used throughout the school year to determine the interventions needed for math. Moby Max has been approved by the district and can be used to give support in reading, math and science.

Kelli Linke is continuing as the Americorps person who is working with the chronically absent students. The Roy Cone Project funded part of Kelli's salary so there are Trustlands funds that are left over. We do not need to amend the plan because we have increased distribution written into the plan. Jerry Wilkins inquired about what is determined to be chronically absent. Brent Hogan explained that there are students who already have 8 or 9 absences for the year. He also discussed school and Roy Cone incentives that are being utilized.

Nelida Gil asked about preparing student more for the math-science Olympiad because students were not as prepared as they should have been. She expressed that this and the Storytelling Festival would fit under our math and reading goals.

Jennilee Hyde moved to accept the plan and Nelida Gil seconded the motion.
